Former JPG site's viability for development questioned

BY BOB DEMAREE

The former CEO of Madison Railroad questioned the viability of strategic planning and marketing for the former Jefferson Proving Ground located north of Madison being considered by the Jefferson County Commissioners.

Commissioner David Bramer said during Thursday's meeting that a proposal the Commissioners sought to study JPG's economic development potential was received last week from consultant Crawford, Murphy and Tilly and has now been shared with Commissioners Ron Lee and Bobby Little to review before deciding how to move forward. The Commission previously designated up to $500,000 in American Rescue Plan funds to conduct the JPG study with the amount spent depending on the scale needed.

Cathy Hale, who retired at the end of last year as chief executive officer of the Madison Railroad located at the former JPG site, questioned the viability of the property for economic development and the need for the study.

Hale noted that much of the Jefferson Proving Ground land "is privately held, and in the past the owner has not been amenable to selling sections." She added that if the owner does consider selling, there are other possibilities for development. "We have a lot of entrepreneurs that are smart to know how they can purchase and use land at the proving ground if and when it becomes available."

Hale worked with the City of Madison's municipal railway 43 years, starting in 1978 soon after the city took over the 25-mile line between Madison and North Vernon. She said Madison Port Authority was the first property owner in JPG in 1995 during the base closure process by purchasing 15 miles of railroad tracks and a 10,000 square foot building.

Dean Ford, of Dupont, purchased a considerable amount of JPG acreage — cleaned up and deemed uncontaminated by the former military munitions

Plans progressing for local Vietnam Memorial

BY BOB DEMAREE

Plans are progressing for a permanent Jefferson County Vietnam Veterans Memorial in front of the Jefferson County Courthouse.

Dale Crafton

Jerry Horine, a Hanover native now living in North Carolina, is leading the effort. The idea for the war memorial began while Horine, a 1959 graduate of Hanover High School, was visiting Madison, and noticed the bust of Jefferson County born Samuel Woodfill, a major in the United States Army who was one of the most celebrated American soldiers of the early 20th century.

Horine felt that Lt. Colonel Dale Crafton, Jefferson County's most decorated Vietnam veteran, deserved similar recognition but that a memorial recognizing all Vietnam veterans of Jefferson County was even more appropriate.

"I know Dale very well, and I know some of the stories about his adventure, and thought it would be nice if Dale could be honored like that," Horine said, adding the new memorial will feature the likeness of Crafton, who grew up in Saluda and was a 1964 graduate of Southwestern High School.

But even as Crafton is honored, the memorial will also honor all Jefferson County Vietnam veterans. The statue will have a raised granite base with a plaque that reads: "Dedicated to all the brave men and women of Jefferson County who have served their country in the Vietnam war. Some gave all, all gave some."

"Our effort is to create a memorial for all the veterans in Jefferson County in an attempt to show all the brave men and women who have served our country how much we appreciate them. It seems like a small thing to do and is not enough," Horine added.

A fundraising effort is currently underway to raise the approximately $60,000 that will be needed. "It will be quite an undertaking," said Horine, noting that Tony Steinhardt, a retired colonel in the Army National Guard, is leading the effort locally. "I am hopeful that everyone will agree that the memorial is well deserved by our veterans."

Horine noted the project already has the support of the County Commissioners, led by Commissioner Bobby Little, to provide the brick walkway around the statue. The walkway will be styled as prints from soldiers' combat boots to add to the experience and allow visitors to reflect on walking in the footsteps of the soldiers. The surrounding area will have benches for visitors to meditate and reflect.

"The goal of this memorial is to not only honor the brave men and women who have served our country so well, but also to be a place of

Madison man sentenced to 20 years for sexual misconduct with minor, child molestation

BY MARK CAMPBELL

A Madison man who was charged with child molestation and sexual misconduct with a minor last year was convicted in Jefferson Circuit Court on Wednesday and sentenced to serve 20 years at the Indiana Department of Corrections (IDOC).

Keifer M. Jones

Keifer M. Jones, 32, of Madison, Indiana, was found guilty of sexually assaulting two girls over a period of years in a case investigated by Madison Police and the Children's Advocacy Center.

The investigation began when one of the victims reported the crime to her mother, who then notified law enforcement. When the victims were forensically interviewed at the Children's Advocacy Center they each independently described how it started out as touching and then "got worse." Both girls informed law enforcement that it would happen at night while they were sleeping and the defendant had been drinking. One child, now age 13, described that it began when she was 8 or 9 years old and that she had "lost count" how many times it had happened.

One of the victims and her

Grote transitions to 4th generation of ownership, leadership

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Grote Industries Inc., now in its 121st year, on Thursday announced a consolidation of ownership after fourth-generation family members Dominic, John and Mike Grote acquired 100% control of the company.

Along with an expansion in ownership, the vision for Grote has also shifted to the next generation, a news release by the company said, adding that the company is "poised to focus on creating and leading safety-related innovation, helping to make the world safer and smarter through connected visibility."

According to the announcement, Dominic Grote will continue as CEO and president, while John Grote has been appointed chief operating officer. Mike Grote will continue in his role as general manager, Asia. Bill Grote, chairman of the board, and Buzz Grote will continue to serve on the board of directors as the third generation "hands the reigns" over to the fourth-generation leaders.

"We believe this expanded vision bonds the Grote team with our customers and looks toward the future on the things that can make their businesses more profitable by being safer," said Dominic Grote. "As we talk about the transition in the business and being a fourth-generation family business, the statistics aren't typically in the favor of businesses going from generation to generation, but we've taken many steps over the last couple of generations to do the right things for the business to make sure we're able to continue as a family business, offering our employees, customers and communities

CDC endorses omicron COVID-19 booster

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Updated versions of the COVID-19 booster to target the most common omicron strains will be coming soon after the boosters vaccine received Centers for Disease Control and Prevention endorsement on Thursday.

The CDC endorsement opens the way for a fall vaccination campaign that could blunt a winter surge if enough Americans roll up their sleeves to be vaccinated. The Associated Press reported the new boosters will target omicron — today's most common strains — and should be arriving in pharmacies and clinics within days.

Meanwhile, the number of COVID-19 deaths continues to climb in the nation and locally. In the last week, one new death was reported in Trimble County — the county's 44th overall and 269th in the four county area — with Jefferson at 154, Carroll County 51 and Switzerland County 20. A total of 8 local deaths were reported in August.

As of Friday afternoon, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention listed all four area counties — Jefferson, Carroll, Trimble and Jefferson — at the "high" level for community spread.

Data from the Kentucky Department of Public Health showed Carroll County with 45 new COVID-19 cases, an increase from 33 the previous week and Trimble with 16 new cases after just seven the previous week.

Data from the Indiana Department of Health had Jefferson and Switzerland counties with decreases in cases in the last week — 51 in Jefferson compared to 80 in the previous week and 14 in Switzerland compared to 24 the previous week.

The decision to endorse the updated COVID-19 boosters by CDC Director Rochelle Walensky came shortly after the agency's advisers voted in favor of the recommendation.

The shots "can help restore protection that has waned since previous vaccination and were designed to provide broader protection," she said in a statement.

The tweaked shots made by Pfizer and rival Moderna offer Americans a chance to get the most up-to-date protection at yet another critical period in the pandemic. They're combination or "bivalent" shots — half the original vaccine and half protection against the BA.4 and BA.5 omicron versions now causing nearly all COVID-19 infections.

The CDC recommendation was the last step before shots can begin. Pfizer said it expected to deliver 3 million doses to vaccination sites around the country by Tuesday.

The original COVID-19 vaccines still offer strong protection against severe illness and death, especially among younger and healthier people who have gotten at least one booster. But those vaccines were designed to target the virus strain that circulated in early 2020. Effectiveness drops as new mutants emerge and more time passes since someone's last shot.

The updated shots are only for use as a booster, not for someone's first-ever vaccinations. The Food and Drug Administration cleared Pfizer's bivalent option for people 12 and older while Moderna's is for adults only.

The U.S. government has purchased 170 million doses from both companies — shots that will be free — and the CDC said 200 million people could be eligible.

Labor Day closings

The City of Madison Street Department and Transfer Station will be closed Monday to observe Labor Day. Garbage, recycling and compost pickup will be delayed one day all week. All items must be at curbside by 7 a.m.

Madison City Hall, Hanover Town Hall and all Jefferson County government offices also will be closed Monday in observance of the Labor Day holiday.

Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicle branches are closed Saturday through Monday in observance of the Labor Day holiday. Branches will resume regularly scheduled business hours Tuesday.

Dale Crafton was awarded the Silver Star for leading his platoon in an assault against a series of well entrenched and reinforced bunkers in Vietnam. Of the 43 members of Crafton's platoon, 13 lost their lives and 26 were wounded including Crafton but the enemy was defeated as a direct result of Crafton's heroic actions.

Before his retirement from active duty, Crafton was awarded a second Silver Star, two Bronze Stars (one for combat valor), two Purple Hearts and numerous service medals and achievements. He was also accepted into the Green Berets and became Company Commander of the 82nd Airborne Division.

The Precious Gift
One gift, above all others
God gives to us to treasure.
One that knows no time, no place
And one gold cannot measure.
The precious, poignant, tender gift
Of Memory - that will keep
Our dear ones ever in our hearts,
Although God gives them sleep.
It brings back long remembered
Things: a song, a word, a smile
And our world's a better place
-Because
We had them for awhile!

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today in History: September 3, Treaty of Paris is signed

By The Associated Press undefined

Today in History

Today is Saturday, Sept. 3, the 246th day of 2022. There are 119 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Sept. 3, 1783, representatives of the United States and Britain signed the Treaty of Paris, which officially ended the Revolutionary War.

On this date:

In 1861, during the Civil War, Confederate forces invaded the border state of Kentucky, which had declared its neutrality in the conflict.

In 1939, Britain, France, Australia and New Zealand declared war on Germany, two days after the Nazi invasion of Poland; in a radio address, Britain's King George VI said, "With God's help, we shall prevail." The same day, a German U-boat torpedoed and sank the British liner SS Athenia some 250 miles off the Irish coast, killing more than 100 out of the 1,400 or so people on board.

In 1943, Allied forces invaded Italy during World War II, the same day Italian officials signed a secret armistice with the Allies.

In 1970, legendary football coach Vince Lombardi, 57, died in Washington, D.C.

In 1976, America's Viking 2 lander touched down on Mars to take the first close-up, color photographs of the red planet's surface.

In 1999, a French judge closed a two-year inquiry into the car crash that killed Princess Diana, dismissing all charges against nine photographers and a press motorcyclist, and concluding the accident was caused by an inebriated driver.

In 2003, Paul Hill, a former minister who said he murdered an abortion doctor and his escort to save the lives of unborn babies, was executed in Florida by injection, becoming the first person put to death in the United States for anti-abortion violence.

In 2005, President George W. Bush ordered more than 7,000 active duty forces to the Gulf Coast as his administration intensified efforts to rescue Katrina survivors and send aid to the hurricane-ravaged region in the face of criticism it did not act quickly enough.

In 2009, a private funeral service was held in Glendale, California, for pop superstar Michael Jackson, whose body was entombed in a mausoleum more than two months after his death.

In 2010, Defense Secretary Robert Gates toured U.S. bases and war zones in Afghanistan, saying he saw and heard evidence that the American counterinsurgency strategy was taking hold in critical Kandahar province.

In 2012, Sun Myung Moon, 92, a self-proclaimed messiah who founded the Unification Church, died in Gapeyeong, South Korea.

In 2019, Walmart said it would stop selling ammunition for handguns and short-barrel rifles, and the store chain requested that customers not openly carry firearms in its stores; the announcement followed a shooting at a Walmart store in Texas that left 22 people dead.

Ten years ago: President Barack Obama consoled victims of Hurricane Isaac along the Gulf Coast and stoked the enthusiasm of union voters in the industrial heartland, blending a hard political sell with a softer show of sympathy on the eve of the Democratic National Convention. Prolific character actor Michael Clarke Duncan, 54, died in Los Angeles.

Five years ago: North Korea carried out its sixth and strongest nuclear test, detonating what it said was a hydrogen bomb. Walter Becker, co-founder of the 1970s rock group Steely Dan, died at the age of 67.

One year ago: Police went door to door in search of more victims from the catastrophic flooding across the Northeast from the remnants of Hurricane Ida, which left nearly 50 people dead in the region. Sheriff's deputies warned residents returning to communities outside New Orleans to come equipped like survivalists because of the lack of basic services in the aftermath of the hurricane, which knocked out electricity to more than 1 million customers in Louisiana. An Arizona man, Jacob Chansley, who wore face paint, no shirt and a furry hat with horns when he joined the mob that stormed the U.S. Capitol on Jan. 6 pleaded guilty to a felony charge. (Chansley would be sentenced to 41 months in prison.) Authorities said improved weather conditions had slowed the growth of a huge California wildfire near Lake Tahoe resort communities.

Today's Birthdays: Actor Pauline Collins is 82. Rock singer-musician Al Jardine is 80. Actor Valerie Perrine is 79. Rock musician Donald Brewer

TODAY IN HISTORY

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT IN HISTORY:

On Sept. 5, 1774, the first Continental Congress assembled in Philadelphia.

ON THIS DATE:

In 1698, Russia's Peter the Great imposed a tax on beards.

In 1864, voters in Louisiana approved a new state constitution abolishing slavery.

In 1939, four days after war had broken out in Europe, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued a proclamation declaring U.S. neutrality in the conflict.

In 1960, at the Rome Olympics, American boxer Cassius Clay (later Muhammad Ali) defeated Zbigniew Pietrzykowski (zuh-BIG'-nee-ehf pee-eht-chah-KAHF'-skee) of Poland to win the light-heavyweight gold medal; Wilma Rudolph of the United States won the second of her three gold medals with the 200-meter sprint.

In 1961, President John F. Kennedy signed legislation making aircraft hijackings a federal crime.

In 1972, the Palestinian group Black September attacked the Israeli Olympic delegation at the Munich Games, killing 11 Israelis and a police officer. German forces killed five of the gunmen.

In 1975, President Gerald R. Ford escaped an attempt on his life by Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, a disciple of Charles Manson, in Sacramento, California.

In 1986, four hijackers who had seized a Pan Am jumbo jet on the ground in Karachi, Pakistan, opened fire when the lights inside the plane failed; a total of 20 people were killed before Pakistani commandos stormed the jetliner.

In 1991, the 35th annual Naval Aviation Symposium held by the Tailhook Association opened in Las Vegas; during the four-day gathering, there were reports that dozens of people, most of them women, were sexually assaulted or otherwise harassed. (The episode triggered the resignation of Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett and the early retirement of Adm. Frank B. Kelso, then the chief of naval operations.)

In 1997, Mother Teresa died in Calcutta, India, at age 87.

In 2016, Hugh O'Brian, the actor who shot to fame as Sheriff Wyatt Earp in what was hailed as television's first adult Western, died in Beverly Hills, California, at age 91.

In 2018, The New York Times published an opinion piece from an anonymous senior administration official claiming to be part of an internal "resistance" working to thwart President Donald Trump's "worst inclinations"; Trump responded that if such a "gutless" person exists, "the Times must, for National Security purposes, turn him/her over to the government at once!" (In late 2020, Miles Taylor, a former chief of staff at the Department of Homeland Security, revealed that he was the author of the op-ed piece.)

Ten years ago: In an impassioned speech that rocked the Democratic National Convention in Charlotte, North Carolina, former President Bill Clinton proclaimed, "I know we're coming back" from the worst economic mess in generations, and he appealed to hard-pressed Americans to stick with Barack Obama for a second term in the White House; in a roll call that lasted past midnight, Obama was officially nominated.

Five years ago: President Donald Trump announced that he was phasing out the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals, or DACA, program protecting young immigrants who were brought to the country illegally, but said he was giving Congress six months to come up with an alternative; he later tweeted that if Congress couldn't do so, he would "revisit" the issue. Hurricane Irma strengthened to a Category 5 storm as it approached the northeast Caribbean on a path toward the United States.

One year ago: A gunman massacred four members of a Florida family, including a baby boy, at their home; prosecutors said Bryan Riley, a 33-year-old former Marine, was under the delusion that the victims were child sex traffickers. (Riley faces charges including murder and attempted murder.)

Today's Birthdays: Comedian-actor Bob Newhart is 93. Actor-singer Carol Lawrence is 90. Actor Lucille Soong is 87. the former military munitions testing facility — in a 1995 auction but has been reluctant to sell off land since while farming the property.

"I'm familiar with the process from beginning to end on the base closure," said Hale. She said she is aware of several instances where Ford was going to sell land, and then backed out.

"I would want to see, as a taxpayer, something in writing" that the owner is not just considering the possibility of selling land, "but that he has it for sale and a price because otherwise that is money down the drain that could be used for not-for-profits or other purposes."

Hale said in all of her years of involvement at JPG, she had "never been successful in purchasing what would have been an acre of land that is of no value to this person." Hale said she was involved in a deal with CSX Corporation, an American holding company focused on rail transportation and real estate, "and they said they would never deal with this landowner again because he raised the price twice during the deal, and they would not be caught in the middle of a deal like that. So, I want to see things in writing before we study something that may or may not be for sale."

"As I told you on the phone, I will talk to him," Bramer responded. "Didn't I tell that?"

"Yes, I want it on record that as a taxpayer I am requesting this because there is nobody in this community that has more experience than I do at the Jefferson Proving Ground," Hale said

Earlier in Thursday's meeting, the Commissioners received a follow-up request from Hale to support the Children's Advocacy Center of Southeastern Indiana, a non-profit that works to minimize trauma suffered by victims of child abuse.

Hale said she had actually attended Thursday's meeting to voice her support for the Children's Advocacy Center as a follow up the Commissioners meeting on Aug. 18 and emphasize the importance of CAC's work.

"I am an abuse survivor," she said, noting if there had been "some kind of awareness and educational program in the schools when I was a child, I might have known there are people to go to for these things."

"I am not an employee of the CAC. I am not a volunteer for the CAC. I am here as a survivor knowing what they could have done for me, and wanting them to be there" for others, Hale said urging the Commissioners to commit to funding the CAC. "I'm trying to be patient but I'm not a very patient person."

Commissioners President Ron Lee said all three Commissioners are in favor of providing assistance to the CAC but they have not yet determined the amount.

Bramer said it's only been a couple of weeks since Hale made the request. "It takes a little bit of time," he said, adding that other organizations are also asking for funding, and the Commissioners have been working toward a thoughtful process to considering where the county's ARP funds should be spent in the county. Much of the ARP money has been allocated but some funds do remain and requests are being considered.

"It's going to take patience before we can come up with an amount that we want to publicly commit to because we want to make sure it's a fair amount, and we want to make sure it's fair for others as well," Bramer said, adding the Commissioners are in the process of establishing guidelines for non-profits which they hope to have completed in a month.

In other business:

• Mark Shireman, project-in-charge manager for Shireman Construction, the construction manager for the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office and Criminal Justice Center that's currently under construction, sought an extension of $4,000 for Atlas, a company that tests concrete and soil on the site. Shireman said it's money that's already in the budget for the project and the Commissioners granted approval.

"Thank you for what you're doing," Commissioner Bobby Little said. "Being out there and working with you, you've got our backs" in being sure all the work is done as it should be.

"You're going to have a real nice facility, something we're all going to be proud of," Shireman said.

• Approved a contract with Wood Environment and Infrastructure Solutions Inc., for a stormwater management master plan at a cost of $62,260. Bramer said Wood's bid was the lowest of four received, but added that was only part of the consideration. The company also met the criteria of a five-member selection committee that determined the company could best develop the plan. "This will allow us to come up with an ordinance to set standards for stormwater management," Bramer said, in order to mitigate flooding and water issues. The county's zoning ordinance currently has only five lines concerning stormwater so "it was time to put something together."

• Approved a contract for capital asset management consultation services with independent contractor Ron Heller for $7,500. Capital asset inventory and valuation is a requirement by the Indiana State Board of Accounts.

• Approved a two-year $130,404.75 contract with United Consulting for bridge inspections. County Highway Superintendent Bobby Phillips said the Indiana Department of Transportation will reimburse the county 80% of the cost with the county actually paying 20%. The Commissioners also approved the purchase of a 2016 Kenworth T370 dump truck for $79,900. Phillips noted crews have nearly completed the gravel road conversion of Poplar Ridge Road to blacktop.

• Troy Morgan, Emergency Management Agency director, reported that items stored by the county at the Jefferson County 4-H Fairgrounds have now been moved to the county's new storage building at 215 West Lagrange Road, Hanover, the former site of Persnickety Antique Mall. Morgan said Hanover Township Volunteer Fire Department provided assistance with the move.

Don't Put Your Money Under the Mattress - There Are Other Options

"Numerous options exist for a safe place to keep your money; the secret is finding the best return without any exposure to risk." Steve Dybwad

Layin It On The Line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

Insulating your money against inflation, theft or catastrophe is as simple as taking it out from underneath your mattress and opening a savings account. The three most common are transactional savings accounts, money market accounts, and certificates of deposit. Two alternative accounts are high yield savings and specialty savings accounts. They all operate under the same premise: money given to the bank will earn interest.

Traditional Transactional Savings Accounts

The simplest way to store money with a financial institution is to open a traditional savings account with a small minimum deposit. If the minimum is maintained, the account holder usually avoids fees. Shop around and compare factors like initial deposit and balance requirements, interest rates, and other fees. While being highly liquid makes it easy to withdraw cash and move funds between accounts, they typically have the lowest interest rates. Accounts are federally insured through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or the National Credit Union Association (NCUA), protecting your savings from bank failures.

High Yield Savings Account

High yield savings accounts offer interest rates usually 20 to 25 times higher than the national average for transactional savings accounts. While potentially available at your local bank, the highest interest rates are typically offered by online banks. Electronic transfers between institutions are speedy and straightforward, making it easy to move your funds if needed. FDIC or NCUA also insures them. Keep in mind that banks offering high yield savings accounts do not typically provide checking accounts and other services like ATM cards.

Specialty Savings Account

Specialty savings accounts are specific to a particular savings goal. These include accounts you can open for children like savings accounts, student accounts, or 529 college savings accounts. Also included are home down payment savings accounts, health savings accounts, and traditional or Roth IRA's. These accounts generate interest and have either low or no maintenance costs. Be aware of strict and potentially costly regulations related to early withdrawal of funds. There are also specifics concerning who can open what type of account.

Money Market Account

Money market accounts typically offer higher interest rates than traditional savings accounts, .02% higher on average. This type of account is special in that you can write checks and use a debit card, like a checking account. However, there are limits to the amount of money and the number of withdrawals allowed. It's also not uncommon for higher minimum balance requirements and fees associated with money market accounts.

Certificate of Deposit (CD) FDIC Insured

A certificate of deposit, or CD, is an account with a fixed interest rate, term length, and maturity date. The fixed date means funds cannot be accessed early without penalty. These accounts typically pay higher rates than traditional savings accounts and are less liquid. The risk is very low, and the return is guaranteed, making it a safe place to store funds that you plan to use in the future.

Each of these accounts can help achieve your savings goals. Evaluate the pros and cons of each depending on your goals and financial situation. Be sure to explore various institutions for the best rates possible, and as always, consult a trusted financial advisor regarding any questions you may have.

New relationship might interfere with old friendship

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: I have a very close friend who is 30 years older than I am.

We have known each other for years. He is like a surrogate father to me, and I cherish the friendship.

His daughter, who is my age, recently reached out to me over social media.

She and I had never met, even though I knew she existed through the duration of my friendship with her father.

We went out. We had great chemistry, and we continue to talk. It's been wonderful. I am very intrigued by her, but I am conflicted.

I want to see where this goes, but I'd hate to compromise my friendship with her father in any way. It would be devastating to me for it to end.

But I also feel a genuine connection to his daughter, and I think a full-on and successful relationship could lead to a great future.

How should I navigate this?

— Conflicted in PA

Dear Conflicted: If you want to preserve your friendship with the elder man, then you should make him aware of your new friendship with his daughter.

You should start by saying, "I received a message from 'Candace,' and we've been in touch. I just wanted you to know that."

You should prepare yourself for a possibly awkward period of adjustment for all of you.

Of course, there is a possibility that he will react very poorly, but if you aren't honest and he learns about this later, there is a far greater likelihood that he will question your integrity and feel embarrassed and misled — by both of you.

Once you've revealed the friendship with his daughter, there is no need for you to disclose the particulars.

Keeping both relationships positive may require some discretion and healthy boundaries on your part.

If the relationship with the daughter "goes south," then you will have to try to do what many people have done, quite successfully, which is to work hard to maintain an ongoing friendship with her dad, while respectfully parting from her.

Anxiety over errors worries worker

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: I like my current job a lot, but recently I've been struggling.

My work is very stressful, and it is extremely important to work efficiently and to be well-organized.

This is not a problem for me; I work very hard for 10 hours a day. I usually leave work feeling like I've gotten everything done.

Recently, however, I've been receiving emails from my supervisor pointing out small things I've done wrong during my shift.

These things don't happen often, but absolutely every time, I receive an email.

I know I can't control or how my supervisor chooses to handle my errors, but I would like to handle my reaction better.

The smallest criticism sends me into a spiral of self-doubt and overwhelming sadness.

I become paranoid that I'm about to be fired, which sends me into another spiral about my financial stability.

This downturn in my mood can last a shift, an entire week, or longer.

I know my fear of being fired is completely unfounded, but I can't stop myself from believing it will happen.

I've been holding on for seven years at my current job, but each new criticism pulls me closer to handing in my resignation. How can I overcome this?

— Can't Handle Critiques

Dear Can't Handle: In the short term, seek your supervisor's feedback. Most likely, your supervisor will reassure you that these notifications are strictly for your own information, so that you can be aware.

Because your anxiety has caused you substantial discomfort and negative consequences, your longer-term goal should be to seek treatment. You should also find ways to interrupt your cycle of negative rumination. Some strategies to try are breathing exercises and mindfulness techniques.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Dealing with some tasks may be more trouble than they are worth. Avoid making large expenditures or financial commitments. Bask in someone's admiration in public or spend quality time with family at home.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Kill them with kindness. A wise but gentle demeanor will create better outcomes than pushing or plotting. Someone may disapprove of your broadminded attitudes. A graceful refusal is better than an awkward agreement.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Friendly competition can make you better at whatever you do. You are open to new ideas and willing to learn more. You can create your own luck by working in tandem with someone who enjoys your companionship.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — The best way to win an argument is to avoid starting one. Being kind and loving costs you nothing and risks nothing. Put crucial financial decisions on the back burner because you may lack some essential information.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Open sesame if love taps on your door one of these nights. It might be difficult to separate business from pleasure this weekend. Follow through on your commitments and put a few extra feathers in your cap.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Time will tell whether to have faith in new companions or to be skeptical. Instead of trying to impress others with your business tactics and know-how, just show up and be yourself. That is always enough. Don't gamble with your heart.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Whistle while you work. A cheerful attitude will promote a constructive sense of team spirit. You can easily ask someone for a helping hand, a favor or advice that will keep you playing at the top of your game.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Choose your fights carefully. You may feel you can't make a mistake, but sudden changes of plan can burst your bubble. Put social affairs on the back-burner while you concentrate on achieving your main goals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Start your day with an upbeat attitude. Spreading words of encouragement and displaying a friendly attitude will promote team spirit. You may be in the spotlight when engaged in hobbies or recreational activities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — A family member may receive recognition or do something that makes you proud. Handle stressful social and financial issues with a sensitive touch. Be accurate without being critical of other people.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — People are driven by different things. You might assume that everyone will be as honest as you are, but they may have a different way of operating. Let your skepticism advise you; someone could take advantage of your friendliness.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Love comes in as many flavors as gelato. Squeeze in extra time for intimate moments with loved ones. Cooking a meal out on the grill or taking a walk can seem festive if you do it with a special someone.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Loved ones should have your back, but strangers and casual friends may be more willing to take advantage of your kindness. Organize your calendar so things go more smoothly and there is more time for entertainment and fun.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Don't dwell on the past. Whatever occurred previously might impact your family or public image, but you can learn from past mistakes. Unite with loved ones to overcome obstacles and strive to support each other.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Obstacles are some of the most effective teachers when you're thinking of the long game. If your ideas get shot down, ask questions and learn. Enjoy social activities where you can let off steam in competitive events.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Throw the dice and see where your luck takes you. Social activities, fun, and romance could head up your "to do" list. Use good taste to improve your surroundings and home base, but steer clear of new investments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Don't substitute strategies for sincerity in tricky situations. When ambition is your middle name, you have to avoid the temptation to take shortcuts. Remain polite and avoid making impulsive decisions because they may prove costly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — A close relationship could experience a breakdown or a breakthrough. Although you enjoy someone's admiration, take their advice with a grain of salt. This is not a good day to make firm decisions or changes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Use imagination to work with others. Your taste may be excellent, but you could impulsively buy something just to please a loved one. You can cheer people up and say things without stepping on anyone's toes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — The daily grind might feel overwhelming at times. Even if it really appears that someone is not pulling their weight, don't endanger your relationship by criticizing someone who's actually doing their best.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Protecting your peace of mind should be a priority. You might be a mere bystander, but you could be drawn into drama if you're not careful. Give loved ones the benefit of the doubt even if you suspect something is off.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Too much hurry can cause harm or be hurtful. Stop to think before you speak and allow plenty of time to reach your destination. You may have regrets if you aggressively insist on having the last word.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — You may be tempted to wander away from the herd if it feels too difficult to walk the very fine line between opposing factions. Proposals and propositions may sound attractive but could create personal liabilities.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Avoid arguments and misunderstandings by being precise about what you say. It is possible for someone to take offense if you camouflage your feelings. Put off important discussions and meetings until tomorrow.

Leonard returns to Colts' practice after being activated

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Indianapolis Colts linebacker Shaquille Leonard was back on the practice field Wednesday, one day after he was activated from the physically unable to perform list.

It's still unclear when the three-time All-Pro will make his season debut.

The three-time All-Pro hadn't practiced since the end of last season.

Initially, Leonard was trying to work his way back from an ankle injury that hobbled him each of the past two seasons. Then in June, he had back surgery when doctors thought that would alleviate the pain. Still, he was never far away from football.

"He's been incredible, being in every day at 5:45, meeting with the coaches, getting extra study time in," general manager Chris Ballard said Wednesday. "But he's got to get his body ready. You can't miss all that time and just go and be game ready. You've got to go get some practice, got to get some work on. So I can't give you a timeline. Maybe Week 1, maybe Week 6."

But Tuesday's decision at the roster cutdown could provide some clarity.

If Leonard started the regular season on PUP, he couldn't have played or practiced for four more weeks. And it would have likely taken a couple of more for Leonard to get in playing shape.

Now, he's at least eligible to play in the Sept. 11 season opener at Houston.

"We'll work together with our training staff and docs and we'll make a decision about when it's best to get him going," Ballard said. "He'll be back when he's back. You'll know. He'll be on the active (roster), you'll all of a sudden see he's not on the inactive (list) on game day."

Safety Trevor Denbow, an undrafted rookie from SMU, will be put on injured reserve though Ballard said he doesn't expect it to be a season-ending injury. Denbow watched Wednesday's practice with a protective boot over his left foot.

Ballard didn't shed much light on the other big question heading into this fall — re-signing left guard Quenton Nelson. The three-time All-Pro is entering the final season of his rookie deal and Ballard said he's hopeful the two sides will reach an agreement.
